April 12, 2008

Excellency:

I have the honour to refer to the candidature of the Republic of Korea for re-election to the UN Human Rights Council for the 2008-2011 period, the elections for which will be held during the 62nd UN General Assembly Session in May 2008.

Over the last six decades, the Republic of Korea has constantly endeavoured to firmly establish its international standing as a thriving democracy as well as a human rights advocate. It is fully committed to contributing to the promotion and protection of human rights.

In particular, as a first-term Human Rights Council member, the Republic of Korea has played a constructive role in establishing the institutional basis for the Council. It hopes to continue to participate in the enhancement of human rights and fundamental freedoms as well as in the development of the Council.

In this regard, it would be highly appreciated if your esteemed government could render its valuable support for the candidature of the Republic of Korea to the Human Rights Council.

Accept, Excellency, the assurances of my highest consideration.

Yu, Myung-hwan

Her Excellency
Condoleezza Rice,

Secretary of State,
